HOW NORWICH HEARING LOOKED IN HARTFORD Unique Hearing at the Capitol Attracted Much Attention,

'A strong pull, a long pull, and pull altogether, was put over by a couple hundred residents of the suburbs of Norwich, who want to be incorporated into a new town to be known, somewhat paradoxically, as "Old Norwich," before the committee on new towns and probate districts, in the hall of the house, Tuesday aft-ernoon, and then there was "a loud protest, a long protest and a protest altogether," from an equal number of citizens of Norwich who want the oundary lines of the city and town ped, about in the rear of the old roundhouse. He found the five men and lined them up against the fence, while he waited for the other officers remain as they are. But the op-ments seemed to have the punch and hey had more time to deliver it, so that the advocates of separation left the capitol in a very happy mood. They seemed to carry with them some of the augury of success.

Both sides sent special trains
Hartford, carrying the supporters he movement, to be or not to divided. If there was any work done Tuesday in the famous Ponemah mills which are located in the proposed new town, it must have been by old men and women. All the ablebodied men seemed to have taken the day off to come to Hartford and by their preslaying the basis for a separation ar-that reason, and 21 for breach of the gument before the committee.

When the hearing got under way the hall of the house looked like a eace. Other causes of arrest were as Theft 3, keeping gambling 2, non-support 3, frequenting it was the largest of the house 2, non-support 3, frequently gambling house 13, resisting officer state convention. vagrancy 2, sleeping out barber law 1, adultery year, an dit was even more formal, as ooth sides had lawyers and stenorraphers, and special accommodations for them had to be provided by the committee.—Hartford Times. Of those who appeared before the city court, 23 went to fail and 34 paid fines. Various disposition was made of the other cases. HAS PLAN TO PROPOSE Four hundred and fifty-one lodgers FOR MERCHANTS' WEEK were given quarters over night during the month, and 19 places of business were found open during the night and Committee to Make Report for Retail Merchants.

WITNESSES WITH KNOWLEDGE Are the Kind Needed in the Christian Life Says Rev. Mr. Ricketts.

Rev. C. H. Ricketts was the speak er at the shop talk at the Richmond Radiator company at noon on Wednesday and vocal selection were rendred by Mrs. L. O. Potter. ess said Rev. Mr. Ricketts is personal knowledge and it is the only thority. Specialists make good wit-nesses along their line because they can testify from personal investiga-ity expert loomse up larg in our criminal courts. His wide acquaint-ance with both the normal and abnormal working of the human and abnormal w normal working of the human brain qualifies him to speak with knowledge on that subject. Therefore he is regarded as a valuable witness.

Let us remember that witnessing is something more than speaking. The basis of witnessing is knowledge, while speaking is any giving output with the sins of the world we could perhaps better understand the bitterness of His cup. Closely allied with His suffering was the constant pressure against Him of the enemies of the speaking is only giving outward ex-pression to that knowledge. There are many who consider talking about a thing and witnessing as identical. This is a great mistake, because talking without knowledge is mere guess-work.

The court never says to a witness, "Will you please talk about this case; will you give us your suspicions, surmisings and deductions: will you state what current street gossip has to say about it." It is never this but always

"What do you postively know about this case?" Witnessing, then, to have any value must have its foundation in knowledge.

If knowledge takes complete possession of us it will seek its own mode of expression. It will show itself in what we say; it will more deeply manifest itself in what we are. If there is something real in our lives, something that is calculated to make others better, then I believe in the erbal expression of it. On the other and there is nothing more disgusting than for the tongue to affirm what does not really exist in the heart—this is sheer hypocrisy. An ideal witness is he who speakes of what has passed through the crucible of a rich experi-

Harvard graduate and is standing on the street corner waiting to take any job that turns up, you have a right to call him a miserable witness You do not care to hear a politician shout himself hoarse about fidelity to country if you have reason to believe ae is a grafter. If, on the other hand, the lives of men are rich and noble and true, then what they say will emphasize what they mean and as witnesses they will add to the moral value of the world.

What we need, then, is men so filled with the nobility of life that talking when it heaveners mentally watural.

about it becomes perfectly natural What we need is teachers in all the grades so impressed with the import-ance of learning that they must be witnesses of it to others. We need men inside and outside the workshops men inside and outside the workshops so gripped with the divinity of labor that they cannot speak too highly in its praise. We need more Christians of such experimental knowledge of their Lord that their faces will say, "We have been with Him on the Delectable Mountains;" men so filled with the abundant life that they will exclaim with the old disciple, "We have found the Messiah." Such are exclaim with the old disciple, "We have found the Messiah." Such are the witnesses and such alone that will hasten the redemption of the world.

Some people be-lieve that He did not feel the full force of temptation but Rev. Dr. Slocum staid that if the temptations meant anything they meant that they were real. Another bitterness spoken of was lies in the fact that those to whom He came especially, refused Him. We can never comprehend the joy of the vision Jesus had; the vision of a redeemed race. There is only one thing that gives us a thrill of hope, for in His parting words to His disciples Jesus intimates that the joy He ex-perienced, the joy of an accomplished redemption would be theirs.
